

Town Hall Time Machine

A look back at our members of Council through the years.

Since Strathmore became a town in 1911, our council has been led by a lively mix of trailblazers, from pharmacists and blacksmiths to hardware dealers, teachers, and doctors. Edmund W.R. Lambert took the first mayor's seat, joined by six councillors ready to shape the town's future. Over the years, council chambers have seen everything from uncontested elections to full council resignations, and big milestones like the election of Marge Hallett, Strathmore's first female councillor, in 1963. This list highlights the many faces who've pulled up a chair at the council table and helped steer Strathmore's story, one meeting at a time.
